World Champion Josh Froelich Appears on “It’s Federal Season” Podcast

ANOKA, Minnesota – July 16, 2020 – In 2018, Federal’s sponsored shooter Josh Froelich enters his first IPSC Shotgun World Shoot in France. After six days and thirty stages, Froelich wins the Open division and leaves a World Champion. It was his first time representing the United States and the last time he would shoot an IPSC competition. “Federal is fortunate to have Josh as one of our ambassadors,” said Jason Vanderbrink, Federal Ammunition’s President. “His enthusiasm to teach the shooting sports games or teach new shooters to responsibly own and operate a firearm is in line with Federal’s mission.”

In this episode, Froelich gives some great advice on shooting a match for the first time and how experienced shooters can draw more first-time shooters into the firearm community with safe and fun recommendations.
