"Reed's dedication and hard work continue to make him one of the best competitive shooters in the game," said Federal's Director of Marketing, Brian Anderson. "His elite performance against world-class shooters at these four matches is quite impressive. We're extremely proud of Casey's performance and his reputation as an ambassador for the Federal brand and the company he works for."

Reed uses Syntech Action Pistol ammunition when shooting competitions. Federal designers configured these loads to meet the accuracy, reliability and power factor requirements of shooters who compete in the International Practice Shooting Confederation (IPSC) and United States Practical Shooting Association (USPSA).

All summer long, USPSA matches challenge its competitors, showcasing each shooter's skills in speed and accuracy," said Reed. "I was fortunate enough to be able to pull off four consecutive championship wins. Syntech Action Pistol Ammo falls right in the sweet spot for power factor. I know the product well and it certainly helped me finish strong at these four events."
