Big Green Supports Children’s Hospitals and Disease Research

LONOKE, Ark. – April 3, 2024 – Remington Ammunition continues to help families nationwide by donating a portion of its Gun Club Cure ammunition sales to benefit children’s hospitals and disease research. The company recently presented a check to the inaugural benefitting nonprofit partner, Arkansas Children’s Hospital.

Remington added the popular Gun Club Cure offerings to its Gun Club line of target loads in 2022, with the goal of providing an economical, top-quality product, while giving back to the community on a national level. Combined with Remington’s annual Shoot to Cure charity fundraiser, this unique line of ammunition has raised more than $35,000 for children’s hospitals and disease research.

“Remington’s always been focused on giving back to our community. These loads are a fantastic opportunity to partner with trap, skeet and sporting shooters to break clays and give back to kids in need,” said Remington’s Shotshell Product Line Manager Ronnie Evans.

Remington’s Shoot to Cure fundraiser will take place Friday, September 20th at the historic Remington Gun Club – steps from Big Green’s factory in Lonoke, Ark. Interested sporting clay shooters can contact kris.carson@remington.com to reserve their team’s spot at the benefit tournament.

Now in its 3rd year, Shoot to Cure brings together the shooting sports industry, top sporting competitors from Team Remington and the public for an annual 100-target benefit tournament. Shoot to Cure has sold out each year, with 2024’s event due to be the biggest yet.
