"Gold Medal Paper shotshells continue to be a favored choice for competitive clay shooters who demand the best in consistency, reliability, and feel," said Josh Vickers, Federal Ammunition Shotshell Product Manager. "With the addition of our one-piece Podium wad in 20-gauge loads, we've improved pattern uniformity and reduced felt recoil—giving shooters an even greater edge in competition."

The exclusive Federal Premium paper hull provides the traditional, nostalgic look and feel that dedicated competitors appreciate, while the high antimony lead is precision-engineered for the perfect balance of hardness and density, ensuring even patterns and maximum downrange power. The brass head enhances reliability by ensuring smooth cycling and consistent extraction, even during high-volume shooting sessions.

The 20-gauge Federal Gold Medal Paper shotshells join the lineup of 11 distinct 12-gauge options. The 12-gauge product line features the Podium wad to minimize felt recoil and enhance pattern density. The 20-gauge loads will be available in 7.5 and 8 shot sizes in 2 ¾-inch shotshells, featuring 7/8 ounces of shot and a velocity of 1,250 fps.
