The Remington Podcast takes a deep dive into all things ammunition, ranging from ballistics and product information to shooting sports tips, hunting stories and much more with special guests from across the industry.

“We are thrilled to bring our podcast to life at the NWTF Convention,” said Mayes. “This event is a fantastic platform to celebrate our shared love for the outdoors and to engage with our audience in a meaningful way.”

Mayes will be joined by Remington’s Director of Shotshell Ronnie Evans for two of the three episodes recorded at the NWTF Convention. Remington ambassador Adam Wies, better known as WHO TEE WHO on YouTube, will join the podcast to discuss Remington’s wide range of industry-leading shotshell loads designed for turkey hunting.

Madison Sharpe, a member of the Remington Sporting Clays Team, will sit down with the duo to talk about the shotshell that Team Remington competes and wins with. Loads such as Premier STS and Premier Nitro Sporting Clays led to Team Remington’s successful 2024 season and a fast start to the 2025 season. Mayes will also be joined by Remington ambassador Matt Hewett to discuss hunting and the importance of fitness. Hewett is an avid hunter and fitness expert. In addition to being a three-time CrossFit Games Champion, Hewett has served as the director of athletic performance at Tennessee Technical University for over a decade. Mayes and Hewett will discuss how outdoorsmen can cater time spent in the gym to prepare themselves for the physical demands of a season spent out in the field chasing wild turkeys and other wild game.
